80,000 Turks Cheer Johnson

Vice President Mingles With Crowds

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson captured Ankara Sunday with a personal handshaking tour of the city that brought thousands of flag-waving Turks into the streets to cheer the visiting U.S. Vice President.

More than 80,000 wildly cheering Turks turned Johnson's official motorcade into a traffic jam when crowds surrounded his car. The Turkish afternoon news took on some of the same zip that had marked his Iranian morning. Iranians greeted him so enthusiastically in Tehran's bazaar that police had to beat them back with sticks.

After calm airport welcoming ceremonies, Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, and daughter, Linda, took 2½ hours to cover the 16 miles from Ankara Airport to the heart of the city. Time and time again he left the official motorcade to talk and shake hands with hundreds of Turks, from farmers to shopkeepers.

"America stands shoulder to shoulder with its ally in NATO, Turkey, whose integrity we have seen tested again and again," Johnson told them. The crowds, obviously delighted, shouted "Long live Johnson, long live America."

Cuban Phone Interruption Unexplained

Puzzling Aftermath To Havana Shelling By Anti-Castroites

NEW YORK (AP) — Normal telephone and cable communications between the United States and Cuba were resumed late Sunday after an unexplained interruption since early in the morning, the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced.

An AT&T spokesman said the first call to the Cuban capital went through at about 5 p.m., EDT, Sunday. He said no explanation was offered for the earlier break in communications, commenting: "They (the Cubans) just weren't answering."

The interruption of normal communications channels developed in a puzzling aftermath of Friday night's shelling of a Havana suburban shore area. Efforts to reach the Cuban capital by phone, radio and cable from New York and Miami earlier in the day were unavailing.

The State Department said it had heard of the communications interruption but had no explanation for it.

Havana Radio newscasts monitored at Key West, Fla., gave no hint as to the breakdown in communications but did charge the United States with two violations of Cuban air space and territorial waters—a favorite accusation in Havana's continuing anti-American campaign.

The newscast said a U.S. plane flew at 9,000 feet over five towns in Matanzas Province and another plane maneuvered over a Cuban vessel northwest of Mariel in Cuban territorial waters. The announcer said this brought to 142 the number of such air space violations since July 1.

The Miramar area of Havana was subjected to a shower of 20-millimeter cannon shells and machinegun and rifle bullets shortly before midnight Friday.

Hotel, Theater Damaged

No one was injured but minor damage was done to a hotel where technicians from Communist bloc countries were staying and to a theater where Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro sometimes makes television speeches.

The gunfire came from offshore and a young Cuban in Miami later told newsmen it was delivered from a 31-foot cabin cruiser and a converted PT boat manned by 23 members of the Directorio Rev. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

New Try At Venus Probe Set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Scientists, frustrated Sunday by electrical problems, planned to try again Monday to launch the Mariner 2 spacecraft on a 182-million mile journey to the vicinity of the planet Venus.

A short circuit in the electrical section of the second stage of the Atlas Agena-B booster rocket forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled launching.

The trouble was detected Saturday night during countdown. Barring additional troubles, the 100-foot tall rocket was scheduled to blast off some time in a three-hour period after midnight to start Mariner 2 on its extended trip across interplanetary space.

If all goes as planned, the 447-pound gold and silver-plated vehicle will pass within 10,000 miles of Venus on Dec. 14 and make the first closeup study of the bright planet, whose secrets have puzzled astronomers and scientists for centuries.

The postponement cuts one day off the transit time to the planet. Mariner 2 is now programmed for a 109-day trip to rendezvous. This is because the earth and Venus have moved slightly closer to each other in their orbits about the sun.

The two planets now are about 69 million miles apart and will approach within 36 million miles in mid-December, when Mariner 2 is to intercept Venus. But to reach its goal at the appointed time, the spacecraft must travel a high, arching course totaling nearly 182 million miles because it must be aimed far in front of swiftly moving Venus like a hunter fires at a moving bird.

Mariner 2 passed six experiments to probe the mysteries which are concealed beneath the heavy cloud layers which surround the planet.

Two of the experiments will operate only during a 30-minute fly-by of the planet. They will measure composition of the cloud-filled atmosphere and temperatures there and near the surface. The other four instruments will study space between the earth and Venus.

Telegraphers Call Thursday Strike Of C&NW

CHICAGO (AP)—A strike was called Sunday by the AFL-CIO Order of Railroad Telegraphers against the Chicago & North Western Railway for next Thursday.

George E. Leighty, union president, said the strike will affect 1,000 members of his union and a total of 16,500 C. & N. W. employees.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg announced in Washington Friday that the no-strike pledge of the telegraphers would be cancelled effective Wednesday. Goldberg said he had taken the action because there had been no progress in three weeks of negotiations.

The no-strike commitment, made by the union Aug. 1 at the request of President Kennedy, was to expire in mid-September. The union is demanding a guaranteed job freeze for about 1,000 members employed by the railroad.

Goldberg said he was releasing both parties from a commitment to continue negotiations.

Cardinal Says 'Religious War' Retards Poland

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński warned Polish Communist leaders Sunday that they are obstructing the nation's progress by what he called "a religious war" and "hatred of God."

The cardinal told an estimated half-million Roman Catholics and pilgrims packed before the Black Madonna Shrine here that the church favors social progress, but the plans "can be fruitful and reasonable only in agreement with God's laws."

He said that in Poland "it is unfortunate that there are programs with noble beginnings but despite very good intentions they are spoiled by the religious war that has begun and which awakens mistrust."

The cardinal told the throng that Polish Catholics make up 90 per cent of the nation's population and "if it were desired, we could do even what is difficult and painful—but not where there is hatred against God."

Protesting government-supported "planned atheism," the cardinal declared: "People may have their quarrels with God but they should never inflict a version of the quarrel on us."

"This is against the freedom of conscience, guaranteed by law," the primate said in what was considered one of the milder and more conciliatory sermons he has delivered on the church state struggle.

A mass of worshipers surrounded the fortress-like Jasna Gora Monastery, which holds the 600-year-old painting known as the Black Madonna, because of its color. The sermon was delivered after a procession of bishops around the monastery walls, in which young Poles took turns carrying the revered image, which is credited with miraculously saving Poland from invading Swedish armies in the 17th Century.

British Criticize Jackie For Skiing With Caroline

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation tabloid Sunday pictorial on holiday in Italy will send a has criticized President Kennedy's cold shiver through mothers wife for taking her daughter Caroline water skiing.

"Please Mrs. Kennedy, don't do it again!" the paper said Sunday in front page headlines.

Most of the paper's front page was devoted to two photographs showing Mrs. Kennedy water skiing with 4-year-old Caroline during their Italian vacation.

In one picture Caroline was holding on to the tow bar and appeared to be perched on her mother's lap. In the other, Mrs. Kennedy was holding Caroline's head above water as she floated low on the skis.

"Please, Mrs. Kennedy, look at the face of your little daughter in the picture — and don't do it again," the paper said. "For over in half an hour,

Smokey Bear Will Have Mate Named Goldie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokey the bear's bachelor days are about over.

The Washington Zoo has disclosed he will be mated soon to Goldie, a blonde from New Mexico. She is scheduled to arrive here by plane Sept. 8.

It is a May-December romance. Smokey, the U.S. Forest Service's symbol of fire prevention, is 12 years old. Goldie is a mere 18 months, but zoo director Theodore Reed said the newlyweds could present the nation with cubs by the end of the next breeding season.

Smokey also is from New Mexico and like Goldie an orphan.

He was found badly singed in a forest fire in the Lincoln National Forest of New Mexico, and over the years has been dramatized as a symbol of the need to prevent forest fires.

Stefansson, 82, Polar Explorer, Scientist, Dies

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Explorer-scientist Vilhjalmur Stefansson—who nearly half a century ago foresaw air traffic over the North Pole and submarines beneath it—died Sunday at the age of 82.

Stefansson, one of the last of the old-fashioned dog sled explorers, suffered a stroke last Monday. He had been at a dinner honoring an old friend, Eske Brun, chief of Denmark's district for Greenland, who was visiting at Hanover.

Stefansson had been Arctic consultant at Dartmouth College and curator of the Stefansson collection of polar literature since 1947.

He began his northern explorations in 1904 and during the following 15 years spent 10 winters and 13 summers in the far north. His greater contribution was considered to be to science, not exploration.

Stefansson once explained these feelings, saying: "When I am asked if I have ever gone to the North Pole, I say no. I am a scientist, not a tourist."

In 1922, he predicted that air traffic between America and the Euro-Asian land mass would lead over the North Pole. He also foresaw the day that submarines would travel under the arctic ice pack.

JFK Flies To Newport For Reunion With Son

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—President Kennedy flew here by helicopter Sunday to visit his in-laws and hold a reunion with his young son, John Jr.

The younger Kennedy, who will be 2 in November, has been staying with his maternal grandparents while the President's wife, Jacqueline, and their daughter, Caroline, 4, have been vacationing in Ravello, Italy.

As the President stepped from his helicopter, his 21-month-old son raced down a hill into his father's arms. The President gave him a tremendous bear hug.

Russia Turns Its Propaganda Guns On ECM

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union zeroed in Sunday on the Common Market.

A two-page article in Pravda denounced the Common Market as an imperialist agency intensifying aggressive activity against the Communist nations as well as endangering the new-found freedom of former colonial states.

Then the Communist Party organ announced that an international conference will begin Monday in Moscow under auspices of the Academy of Science to "discuss problems of contemporary capitalism."

It said delegates from more than 20 countries in Europe, Asia and Latin America will take part in the conference, but did not name the countries. The Common Market is made up of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Pravda's article clearly was the result of a prolonged study under direction of the academy. It began by conceding that industrial output in the Common Market area had grown 30 per cent between 1957 and 1961 while the volume of export had increased 50 per cent. The pace of industrial growth, it said, had increased 1½ to 2 times as fast the rest of the capitalist world.

Then it added: "But one should not overemphasize the importance of that factor, Japan, which had no relations with the Common Market, has considerably outpaced the countries of the community in the tempo of increasing output and export."

The Common Market, the paper said, has launched a competitive struggle for markets. Then, in that peculiar nimbleness of Soviet criticism, it assailed all the things happening in the Common Market which are found useful and praiseworthy in the Communist world.

Pravda painted this picture: "Small enterprises have been crowded out of business and many small farms liquidated in France. Small trading houses in France had decreased by 27 per cent while the share of goods turnover of big companies had increased by 50 per cent. A similar course was pursued in Italy and West Germany."

In West Germany more than 100,000 farmers are leaving the land annually and small farms are disappearing. More and more, industrial domination of the Common Market is shifting to West Germany, which now has nearly half of the total.

Six Youngsters Perish As Fire Destroys Home

CLOVIS, Calif. (AP) — All six children of a cabinet maker and his wife perished early Sunday in a fire that destroyed their new suburban home near Fresno.

Ben Funk, 32, and his wife, Betty, 28, escaped through a bedroom window. She suffered a broken leg. He was cut and bruised.

Deputy Coroner Walt Sechler said all six suffocated from smoke.

Cause of the fire was under investigation.

A neighbor, Russell Welch, 19, was credited by witnesses with recovering bodies of four children, a policeman the other two. Welch's hands were cut when he opened a window to enter the blazing home.

Scrap Reserve Plan, Probers Tell Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators told the Pentagon Sunday to scrap most of its reserve plan and come up with something better to cure failures exposed by the Berlin crisis limited callup.

They reminded Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara also that the wide powers given him by Congress can be taken away unless deeds replace "the lip-serving pledging cooperation that has been given in copious quantities."

In a unanimous finding, a House Armed Services subcommittee criticized both past and planned handling of reserves—claiming it was likely to depress morale and let the program "rock and stumble along" without significantly increasing military readiness.

The report, issued by chairman S. Edward Hebert, D-La., after prolonged hearings, coupled criticism of Pentagon inflexibility with committee recommendations for positive Defense Department action not later than next Feb. 1.

Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., veteran chairman of the parent committee, endorsed the report and its conclusion that "Neither the Constitution nor our creator has endowed these experts in the Pentagon with the cloak of infallibility."

The report said the Army "demonstrated inability" to select the best prepared men and units for the small-scale mobilization.

It deplored attempts by the Army and the Defense Department to "justify these confusions" with the testified admission that they "have not prepared contingency plans which contemplated a partial mobilization."

Youth Killed At Wall To Be Buried Today

BERLIN (AP)—Peter Fechter, whose death at the wall sparked last week's Berlin crisis, will be buried Monday in East Berlin.

Fechter bled to death Aug. 17 from a bullet wound in the stomach and two in the back as he lay groaning for nearly an hour on the eastern side of the wall, near U.S. Checkpoint Charlie.

No one gave him any help. Because no U.S. ambulance was sent to him, some anti-American feeling was stirred in West Berlin and angry demonstrators pelted Soviet buses with rocks several times.

As a result the Russians, instead of taking the change of guard to the Soviet war memorial in West Berlin in buses, began to use armored personnel carriers. These are being escorted to and from the memorial by U.S. and British military police. The Russians protested these escorts at first but seem to have accepted them now.

Elaborate West Berlin police precautions are keeping crowds at a safe distance. There has been no rioting since some 5,000 demonstrators clashed with police near Checkpoint Charlie last Monday.

Tension has decreased in the last couple of days. There was only a small crowd on Sunday near the wall, where West Berliners have set up a cross in memory of Fechter. Police let people through in pairs to lay flowers at the cross.

Hans Dieter Wesa, 19, an East Berlin railroad policeman, was shot Thursday night while fleeing to West Berlin, but his death did not result in new rioting.

Early last week, demonstrators even tried to rename Wilhelmstrasse Peter Fechter Strasse. They put up makeshift street signs bearing his name.

Scientists, Using Plants, Make Milk Without Cow

LONDON (AP)—British scientists have discovered a process for making milk without a cow, using pea pods, cabbage leaves and weeds. They hope to open a pilot plant this year with large-scale production following later.

The scientists have got rid of a greenish color in their man-made milk and are trying now to eliminate its slight vegetable flavor.

If they succeed, the product will go on sale as a powder, in condensed form, and as a liquid. It is expected to compete in price with cows' milk.

Basically, the raw materials for man-made milk are the same as the food eaten by a cow—green leaves.

The research which led to the discovery was carried out at the Vegetarian Research Center near Watford in Hertfordshire.

"We can produce the milk from almost all greenstuffs," said Research Director Dr. Frank Wokes.

"We have been using carrot tops, outer cabbage leaves and pea pods."

"We can also make it from a large number of green plants which are not edible in themselves. Weeds, nettles and all the hedgerow growths have been used very successfully."

He explained the process: "Roughly it is to mash green leaves in water warmed under controlled conditions until the protein is separated. Vitamins, minerals, vegetable fats and carbohydrates are then added. The vitally important vitamin B12 must also be introduced."

Dr. Wokes says the process could be valuable in helping to solve world food problems.

Cuban Phone Interruption Unexplained

Ben Bella, Key Lieutenants Flee To Oran

Guerrilla Leaders Call Revolutionary Parliament Meeting

ALGIERS (AP) — The guerrilla command controlling Algiers formally banned the activity of Ahmed Ben Bella's Political Bureau on Sunday, accusing it of treason. With organized government crumbling rapidly, the guerrilla leadership called for an emergency meeting of the old revolutionary parliament.

Ben Bella and his close associates were reported in flight to Oran, Radio Algiers said.

The guerrilla command issued a statement in the presence of the commanders of wilayas (zones) 3 and 4 saying the Political Bureau—seven men originally with Ben Bella at the head—had "turned its back on the revolution and its principles."

The statement called on the "people, militants, fighters and auxiliaries" to demand a meeting of the revolutionary parliament known as the "National Council of the Algerian Revolution."

Feuds Split Parliament

This parliament met in Tripoli, Libya, during the Algerian war against France. It consists of 72 men and represents various feuding factions. The parliament has been unable to come up with a unanimous program since the cease-fire, signed with the French last March.

It was the feuding within the parliament that led, among other things, to the present crisis that brought the split between Ben Bella and Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

In the light of recent events, Western diplomats saw no immediate prospects for any reasonable solution in Algeria. On the contrary, they feared the present situation is likely to deteriorate to proportions surpassing post-independence chaos in the Congo.

The guerrilla commanders wrecked Ben Bella's Political Bureau on Saturday. The bureau had been the nation's de facto provisional government. In its last act before the guerrilla move, the bureau postponed indefinitely the elections scheduled for Sept. 2 for a constituent assembly to set Algeria finally on the road to self-government.

Provisional Executive Blasted Sunday's guerrilla statement also bitterly assailed the French-set Algerian provisional executive, which remained the only semblance of organized governmental activity in Algeria.

The statement accused the provisional executive of favoring "neo-colonialists and traitors" in its appropriation of funds. It particularly hit the executive's president, Abderrahmane Fares, accusing him of favoring French rule in Algeria.

The guerrilla statement changed nothing in Algeria's chaotic situation. If anything, it constituted a bitter attack on the only remaining organized body of authority—the provisional executive—and showed the anti-Western and anti-European attitude of officers in control of the city.

The provisional executive was organized by the French after the Evian cease-fire accords. Its task was to administer Algeria until a legal government was formed.

Smokey Bear Will Have Mate Named Goldie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokey the bear's bachelor days are about over.

The Washington Zoo has disclosed he will be mated soon to Goldie, a blonde from New Mexico. She is scheduled to arrive here by plane Sept. 8.

It is a May-December romance. Smokey, the U.S. Forest Service's symbol of fire prevention, is 12 years old. Goldie is a mere 18 months, but zoo director Theodore Reed said the newlyweds could present the nation with cubs by the end of the next breeding season.

Smokey also is from New Mexico and like Goldie an orphan.

He was found badly singed in a forest fire in the Lincoln National Forest of New Mexico, and over the years has been dramatized as a symbol of the need to prevent forest fires.

Stefansson, 82, Polar Explorer, Scientist, Dies

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Explorer-scientist Vilhjalmur Stefansson—who nearly half a century ago foresaw air traffic over the North Pole and submarines beneath it—died Sunday at the age of 82.

Stefansson, one of the last of the old-fashioned dog sled explorers, suffered a stroke last Monday. He had been at a dinner honoring an old friend, Eske Brun, chief of Denmark's district for Greenland, who was visiting at Hanover.

Stefansson had been arctic consultant at Dartmouth College and curator of the Stefansson collection of polar literature since 1947.

He began his northern explorations in 1904 and during the following 15 years spent 10 winters and 13 summers in the far north. His greater contribution was considered to be to science, not exploration.

Stefansson once explained these feelings, saying: "When I am asked if I have ever gone to the North Pole, I say no. I am a scientist, not a tourist."

In 1922, he predicted that air traffic between America and the Euro-Asian land mass would lead over the North Pole. He also foresaw the day that submarines would travel under the arctic ice pack.

JFK Flies To Newport For Reunion With Son

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — President Kennedy flew here by helicopter Sunday to visit his in-laws and hold a reunion with his young son, John Jr.

The younger Kennedy, who will be 2 in November, has been staying with his maternal grandparents while the President's wife, Jacqueline, and their daughter, Caroline, 4, have been vacationing in Ravello, Italy.

As the President stepped from his helicopter, his 21-month-old son raced down a hill into his father's arms. The President gave him a tremendous bear hug.

Cardinal Says 'Religious War' Retards Poland

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski warned Polish Communist leaders Sunday that they are obstructing the nation's progress by what he called "a religious war" and "hatred of God."

The cardinal told an estimated half-million Roman Catholics and pilgrims packed before the Black Madonna Shrine here that the church favors social progress, but the plans "can be fruitful and reasonable only in agreement with God's laws."

He said that in Poland "it is unfortunate that there are programs with noble beginnings but develop very good intentions they are spoiled by the religious war that has begun and which awakens mistrust."

The cardinal told the throng that Polish Catholics make up 90 per cent of the nation's population and "if it were desired, we could do even what is difficult and painful—but not where there is hatred against God."

Protesting government-supported "planned atheism," the cardinal declared: "People may have their quarrels with God but they should never inflict a version of the quarrel on us."

"This is against the freedom of conscience, guaranteed by law," the primate said in what was considered one of the milder and more conciliatory sermons he has delivered on the church state struggle.

A mass of worshippers surrounded the fortress-like Jasna Gora Monastery, which holds the 600-year-old painting known as the Black Madonna, because of its color. The sermon was delivered after a procession of bishops around the monastery walls, in which young Poles took turns carrying the revered image, which is credited with miraculously saving Poland from invading Swedish armies in the 17th Century.

British Criticize Jackie For Skiing With Caroline

LONDON (AP) — The mass circulation tabloid Sunday pictorial has criticized President Kennedy's wife for taking her daughter Caroline water skiing.

"Please Mrs. Kennedy, don't do it again!" the paper said Sunday in front page headlines.

In one picture Caroline was holding on to the tow bar and appeared to be perched on her mother's lap. In the other, Mrs. Kennedy was holding Caroline's head above water as she floated low on the skis.

"Please, Mrs. Kennedy, look at the face of your little daughter in the picture—and don't do it again," the paper said. "For over in half an hour,

Telegraphers Call Thursday Strike Of C&NW

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike was called Sunday by the AFL-CIO Order of Railroad Telegraphers against the Chicago & North Western Railway for next Thursday.

George E. Leighty, union president, said the strike will affect 1,000 members of his union and a total of 16,500 C. & N. W. employees.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg announced in Washington Friday that the no-strike pledge of the telegraphers would be cancelled effective Wednesday.

Goldberg said he had taken the action because there had been no progress in three weeks of negotiations.

The no-strike commitment, made by the union Aug. 1 at the request of President Kennedy, was to expire in mid-September.

The union is demanding a guaranteed job freeze for about 1,000 members employed by the railroad.

Goldberg said he was releasing both parties from a commitment to continue negotiations.

$1.5 Million Holdup Gets Congressional Scrutiny

BOSTON (AP)—The slick, precision job of a professional band of white-gloved shotgun bandits who scooped a record haul of $1,551,277 from a small mail truck in Plymouth Aug. 14 comes under congressional scrutiny Monday in Washington.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., said his Government Activities subcommittee, which is investigating internal efficiency of government agencies, wants to determine what protection the post office gives large shipments of money.

Key witnesses will include Philip Schena, driver of the mail truck, and Patrick Barrett, the guard who rode with him. Their truck carried 16 sealed bags of cash from Cape Cod banks en route to the Federal Reserve

Boy With Bullet In Brain Plans To Enter School

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Whether Donald Fligor Jr. will be ready for school next month is still questionable—he has a 22 caliber bullet embedded four inches in his brain.

The Springfield boy, 14, who was given a one in four chance to live three weeks ago, laughed Sunday at his home and talked about returning to his junior high school classes.

"It's a miracle," the boy's father said in recounting the anxious hours and days after young Don was accidentally shot in the left temple by a young friend.

Doctors were at a loss for some time as to what to do with the youth. It was determined an operation to remove the bullet was too risky. For 10 days Don was kept packed in ice to slow his circulation and reduce pressure on the brain. During that time his body temperature was dropped to 86 degrees. (Normal is 98.6.)

He was removed slowly from the ice bed and last Sunday, 16 days after the accident, Don came home showing very little effect of having a bullet in his brain.

Fligor said doctors explained that scar tissue will build around the bullet and will hold it in place.

Juan Manuel Salvat, president of the group, denied the boats left from the United States but late Saturday the U.S. Coast Guard impounded at Marathon, Fla., the two craft believed used in the attack.

Castro quickly blamed the United States for the shelling and said it was carried out by "mercenary agents (Cuban exiles) who operate with impunity from the coasts of Florida."

The State Department denied the government had any advance knowledge of the incident or was in any way involved.

Mrs. Finkbine Returns; Praises Swedish People

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Sherri Finkbine arrived back in her native land Sunday saying she hopes to add to her family of four children in the future and praising the Swedish people.

Looking tired after 20 hours of plane travel from Stockholm, where an abortion prevented the birth of an infant which doctors said would have been malformed, Mrs. Finkbine, from Phoenix, Ariz., told newsmen:

"The Swedish people are the most intelligent, understanding in the world. Americans try to hide their heads in the sand like an ostrich and hope such problems will go away."

Mrs. Finkbine and her husband, Robert, declined to disclose their immediate plans, but an American Airlines spokesman said the couple held reservations on a

W. Va. Air Crash Kills Two Men

SUMMERSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Two men were fatally injured Sunday in the crash of a Cessna-172 private plane shortly after takeoff from Summersville Airport.

Authorities identified the victims as David C. Weakley, about 45, of Roncove, and Charles Everett Woodson, 33, Lewisburg. Weakley died minutes after he was removed from the wreckage of the plane and Woodson died about 1 p.m. EST in Laird Memorial Hospital in Montgomery.

Also injured in the wreck were Garland Clinton Francis, 50, of Charlton Heights, Fayette County, and his 23-year-old son, Garland Ray Francis. Both were described in good condition in the Montgomery hospital. The elder Francis suffered possible abdominal injuries and his son possible neck injuries.

The West Virginia Civil Air Patrol said the aircraft's engine appeared to have failed on takeoff. The craft crashed on the No. 6 fairway of the Summersville Golf Course, missing a group of players by about 100 feet.

The golfers rushed to the plane and removed the occupants from the wreckage. There was no fire.

Highway Death Toll In Md. Reaches 350

By The Associated Press

The death of a 34-year-old Eastern Shore resident Saturday raised the state's highway toll to 350, an increase of 78 over last year.

The victim, Robert William Cannon Jr., died in Eastern Memorial Hospital a few hours after his car veered off a Talbot County road, slammed into an embankment and rolled over.

State Police said Cannon, a resident of Cordova, died of head injuries after the accident on the Cordova-Skipston Road.

Earlier victims Saturday were Robert William Cusick, 25, of Waldorf, and Norman R. Burdette, 58, of Rocky Ridge in Frederick County.

Cusick's car missed a sharp curve on a Forestville road in Prince Georges County and he was thrown from the vehicle.

Burdette was killed when his car slammed into a concrete bridge railing on Maryland 355 near Frederick.

Maryland Seen Defective Car Dump Ground

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland commissioner of motor vehicles believes a large number of defective cars are being dumped on the Maryland market from nearby states that require inspections.

Commissioner John R. Jewell said Sunday he has asked officials in five states for information on old cars taken off the road because they appeared beyond reasonable repair.

Jewell said he believed a substantial number of unsafe cars are driven or towed to Maryland to be registered where no inspection is required.

"There's no point in spending $300 or $400 to repair a $25 or $30 car, so the owners bring them to Maryland," Jewell said.

The commissioner wrote to motor vehicle officials in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey for a list of the serial numbers of cars condemned by inspectors in those states.

The results of the survey will be submitted to a Legislative Council committee, which is studying a proposal for inspections in Maryland.

Ambusher Kills Man, Shoots Self

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP)—Raymond Burke, 37, of Fairfax, was killed by a gun shot and Victor A. Tatum, 42, of Falls Church, critically wounded in a double shooting near here early Sunday.

Lt. David Eike of the Fairfax County detectives, said Tatum apparently had hidden in a closet in the apartment of his ex-wife, Mrs. Rebecca M. Tatum, 36. When she returned home with Burke, Tatum burst out of the closet and fired at Burke, Eike said.

He said Burke was killed by a bullet in his left chest. Tatum fired a second shot at his former wife but missed and then turned the pistol on himself, Eike said.

Exhibitors At State Fair Share $94,000 In Prizes

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP)—A with corn and other grains, fruits, children's book on farm animals, vegetables, home - canned foods, has come to life at the Timonium dairy products and even clothing, fairgrounds, 11 miles north of Baltimore, where the 81st annual arts.

Maryland State Fair opens Monday.

Cattle, sheep, swine and horses arrived on the grounds Sunday to be pampered and prepared for the big event which climaxes months of effort by their adult or youthful owners.

Prize money is at stake, of course—$94,000 in all. But the pride of achievement is equally important for the 10,000 exhibitors especially the 4-H youngsters whose creed is "Head, Heart, Hands and Health."

Livestock account for a major part of the judging—there are eight classes of sheep alone—but Maryland farm folk also compete

A pulling contest by work horses, which has proved popular in the past, will be staged on Thursday and Friday nights.

Most of the cattle judging will be the second week of the fair. And the Maryland Pony Sale, held each year in conjunction with the fair, will be Friday, Sept. 7, Sept. 4 is Grange Day and Sept. 5 Farm Bureau Day.

'Lifer' Recaptured By State Trooper

SALISBURY (AP)—State Police recaptured early Sunday a prisoner who walked away from the Poplar Hill work camp, where he had been serving a life term on a murder charge.

Trooper Philip Messick arrested the escapee, Delmas Bozman, 35, on U.S. 13 South of Salisbury, about ten miles from the minimum security work camp.

He had walked away from the institution shortly before noon on Saturday and had been the target of a statewide manhunt.

Bozman was sentenced to hang in the 1948 fatal shooting of Baltimore cab driver Cornelius McDowell, a hold-up victim. Gov. Lane commuted the sentence to life.

Trooper Messick, on night patrol, arrested the prisoner as he walked south on the highway. Bozman did not resist arrest.

State police brought the prisoner to the Maryland Penitentiary in Baltimore.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a woman who can't come home from a day's shopping without bringing a gift for each of her three children? It's not easy to find gifts for children, who have just about everything under the sun. When she goes to an afternoon club meeting or to a friend's home to play cards she asks the hostess for extra cake or cookies — something to bring the children so they'll know "Mummy has not forgotten them."

I wouldn't give a hang about this, except the woman is my wife. I think she's making a big mistake. She insists it's impossible to give children too much love or attention. Then she hauls out the psychology books and I'm no match for her. Please handle this in your column.

OUT-TALKED

DEAR OUT-TALKED: Your wife is correct when she says it's impossible to give a child too much love and attention. But what she buys in stores and lugs home from bridge parties is not love and attention. It's a shoddy substitute, and the youngest child knows the difference.

A mother who feels so inadequate that she doesn't dare come home without gifts usually fears

she is failing in other areas. She is attempting to bribe her children — and she should knock off the practice pronto.

My first cousin (I will call her Flossie) lives 400 miles from here. Flossie is two years younger than I am and she has always been a favorite of mine. When we were youngsters we cut up a lot together.

Flossie's husband was a fine fellow. He passed away several months ago and I went over to the funeral. I told her then I'd like her to come to Richmond and visit me as soon as she felt like it.

Last week she wrote saying she'd like to spend Labor Day weekend with me if the invitation was still good.

I have a housekeeper who takes care of my seven-room apartment, but she doesn't sleep in. Do you think it would be proper to invite my cousin to stay with me? Or should I put her up in a hotel not far away?

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
2♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Our preference is for six hearts. It is true that we have only 16 points in high cards, but valued at hearts our hand is worth three more points after North supports the suit, one for each of the doubletons and one for the fifth card of the supported heart suit.

Q. 8—You are South, vulnerable, and you hold:

♠A J 10 ♥K 9 7 6 4 2 ♣A K 8 3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. It is true that we are normally reluctant to leave in a low level double when void of the adverse suit. In this case, however, we have more than enough defensive values to justify our opening bid, and it is very probable that partner is short in hearts when he chooses to double a nonvulnerable opponent.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Half-Sizes Can Be Boon For Short, Round Figures

In most instances, designers have taken every woman's figure problems into consideration. Hat sizes are an example — they are the modifications of current fashions that are especially oriented for the short and roly-poly figure. These clothes are expressly designed with vertical and diagonal lines, discerning trims, subtle hues, and exact proportions that cheat the eye into believing a figure is inches taller and slimmer than the tape measure indicates.

Are you one of the small ones who has been meaning for years to go on a diet? Then seek out the half-sizes when shopping for clothes. Of course, they can't do all for you that foregoing dessert and candy for months past would do. But they'll make you look as though you had at least skipped bread and potatoes.

The half-sizes, to complete their mission, will have to use a bit of care in the choice of accessories and make-up.

Never choose an accessory that is round in design or detail. A winged earring will stand you in good stead, but a button type will undo your other wise selections. A slim-toed shoe should be preferred over a stubby model and an oblong envelope to a pouch purse. A long, straight stole will further your goal over a short, round cape.

Never choose an accessory that is too big or too little in comparison to your own proportions. A huge quill in your hair will suggest the tail that wags the dog. A tiny ostrich tip will give the reverse effect. But a moderate-sized wing will provide the exquisitely-proportioned touch.

Avoid the tricky or flashy in make-up. Use medium-bright lipstick to lengthen your lips; a trace of eye shadow to elongate the contour of your lids. Shape

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a woman who can't come home from a day's shopping without bringing a gift for each of her three children? It's not easy to find gifts for children, who have just about everything under the sun. When she goes to an afternoon club meeting or to a friend's home to play cards she asks the hostess for extra cake or cookies — something to bring the children so they'll know "Mummy has not forgotten them."

I wouldn't give a hang about this, except the woman is my wife. I think she's making a big mistake. She insists it's impossible to give children too much love or attention. Then she hauls out the psychology books and I'm no match for her. Please handle this in your column.

OUT-TALKED

DEAR OUT-TALKED: Your wife is correct when she says it's impossible to give a child too much love and attention. But what she buys in stores and lugs home from bridge parties is not love and attention. It's a shoddy substitute, and the youngest child knows the difference.

A mother who feels so inadequate that she doesn't dare come home without gifts usually fears

she is failing in other areas. She is attempting to bribe her children — and she should knock off the practice pronto.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a widower 73 years of age although people tell me I don't look it. I have a good head of hair and all my natural teeth.

My first cousin (I will call her Flossie) lives 400 miles from here. Flossie is two years younger than I am and she has always been a favorite of mine. When we were youngsters we cut up a lot together.

Flossie's husband was a fine fellow. He passed away several months ago and I went over to the funeral. I told her then I'd like her to come to Richmond and visit me as soon as she felt like it.

Last week she wrote saying she'd like to spend Labor Day weekend with me if the invitation was still good.

I have a housekeeper who takes care of my seven-room apartment, but she doesn't sleep in. Do you think it would be proper to invite my cousin to stay with me? Or should I put her up in a hotel not far away?

CLYDE

DEAR CLYDE: It would be perfectly proper for you to invite Flossie to be a guest in your apartment. I am assuming, of course, that you can be trusted without a chaperone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just finished reading "Elephant Hide's" letter and I am boiling. She's the woman who skips merrily off to the market looking like a field hand and not caring a hoot what others say.

I moved from a cosmopolitan eastern city to this small community in Montana. I wouldn't think of appearing in public wearing anything but a clean dress. Yet all about me I see girls wearing tight levis, brilliant western shirts and boots or moccasins. They think they are dressed in the height of fashion. Maybe they are for round-up time, but

How First Federal helps the gifted child GO TO COLLEGE

MARY IS SEVEN years old and wants to be a musician. This means long hours of practice and a costly lesson once a week. Mother helps with inspiration, while First Federal Savings encourages them with regular earnings, currently a new high 4% a year.

After the piano was purchased with money saved in First Federal Savings account, Mother began saving for Mary's college days. She pays $5 a week for lessons, and sets aside another $5 a week for future attendance at a famous music school. When Mary's 18, she'll have $3,645.51.

If your child is talented in music, or medicine, art or law . . . you might save $5 a week.

Born in Martinsburg, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late Frederick and Virginia (Flagg) Darber. Her husband, Franklin P. Haller Jr., preceded her in death.

She was a member of First Presbyterian Church. A son, J. Byron Dowling, city, is the only survivor.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home where friends will be received today from 2 until 4 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home Tuesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Methodist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

An estimated $10 million is stolen from banks by employees every year.

MRS. VIRGIE FEARNOW

BERKELEY SPRINGS — Mrs. Virgie M. Fearnow, 73, widow of Jesse Fearnow, died yesterday at her home here.

She was born in Morgan County, a daughter of the late Benton and Susan (Ruppenthal) Batt.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Marie Clark, Mrs. Rosalie Miller and Miss Ethel Fearnow; three sons, Fred, J. B. and Ray Fearnow, all of Berkeley Springs; a sister, Mrs. Boyd Ruppenthal, Berkeley Springs; a brother, Ernest Batt, Charles Town, and three grandchildren.

The body is at the Parks-Johnson funeral home here and will be taken to First EUB Church Wednesday at 1 p. m. for a service at 2 p. m.

Rev. Roy Hedrick and Dr. James A. Swain will officiate and burial will be in Greenway Cemetery.

MRS. ANNIE VAN SICKLE

FRIENDSVILLE — Mrs. Annie Van Sickle, 82, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Inks, near Friendsville. She had been ill the past two months. She was a daughter of the late Jeremiah and Hiley (Boyer) Frazee. Her husband preceded her in death.

Besides Mrs. Inks she is survived by a brother, Alex Frazee, Friendsville.

The body is at the residence of her daughter.

A service will be conducted tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at Blooming Rose Methodist Church. Rev. Charles Hinkle will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. DOROTHY E. WHITE

Mrs. Dorothy Ellen White, 86, of 66 National Highway, LaVale, died yesterday at Allegany County Infirmary where she was admitted three years ago. A native of Frostburg, she was a daughter of Charles F. and Frances (Burton) Merrill.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Floyd Ingram, LaVale, and Mrs. Nelson Fishell, city; one son, John Wade White, Baltimore; two sisters, Mrs. Annie Bittner, Meyersdale, and Mrs. Fanny Belcher, Berlin, Pa.; one brother, Oscar Merrill, Berlin, five grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren and 11 great great grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 until 4 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

A service will be conducted there Wednesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. M. J. King, pastor of First Church of God and interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Swimming Revue Slated Tonight

The annual swimming revue of pupils of Raymond J. "Ike" Law will be given today at 7 p. m. at the Celanese pool.

All students should be at the pool by 6:30 p. m., Mr. Law said.

At least 75 children are expected to demonstrate their swimming skills. Former students Paul Skelly, Robert Mewshaw and Sharon Geatz will demonstrate diving, swimming and lifesaving techniques.

How First Federal helps the gifted child GO TO COLLEGE

MARY IS SEVEN years old and wants to be a musician. This means long hours of practice and a costly lesson once a week. Mother helps with inspiration, while First Federal Savings encourages them with regular earnings, currently a new high 4% a year.

After the piano was purchased with money saved in First Federal Savings account, Mother began saving for Mary's college days. She pays $5 a week for lessons, and sets aside another $5 a week for future attendance at a famous music school. When Mary's 18, she'll have $3,645.51.

If your child is talented in music, or medicine, art or law . . . you might save $5 a week.

The 'Unexploited' Cuban Peasants

Fidel Castro has just announced that Cuban peasants will no longer be permitted to own land, either individually or collectively. It follows that his promises of land reform were phony.

One of the dynamic forces in the Cuban revolution was the hunger of peasants for land to call their own. The peasants were told they were being exploited by foreign and Cuban landowners. But Castro's hypocritical promise was too simple; seize the land, give it to the peasants, and they will be better off.

If the land had been divided into family farms and distributed among all the peasants, most plots would have been too small for efficient operation.

And so the first step was to organize collective farms of a more economic size. Collective farming was tried for three years. Less food was produced. So that didn't work.

Now the pretense of individual or group ownership is being abandoned. The state will own and operate all farms. A glance at Communist agriculture elsewhere in the world reveals that Cuban peasants now will learn what exploitation really is.

But of course all the talk about "exploitation" when indulged in by Communists is pure nonsense. Indonesia has been charging that the Dutch were exploiting West New Guinea. But now that Indonesia has been "awarded" that area, she will have to try to shoulder the burden of the $30 million subsidy formerly provided by the Dutch.

Maybe the day will come when the peasants in Cuba and the Papuans in West New Guinea will long for the good old days when they were "exploited" — and better off.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The President's Limits

A reader in Adelphi, Maryland, writes to say: "To be sure this country did pour money into both of these countries (Cuba and China); but did it go to help those who needed help? It certainly did not. It went to those who already had more than they needed."

This is said too often and it is always unfortunately so meaningless. A government can only deal with a government. A President of the United States can only deal with the designated officials of the government of another country. He cannot set up an office in a foreign country and shout "Come unto me all who are heavy-laden." He would be thrown out and rightly so. We would not tolerate such nonsense in our country.

Whatever form of aid our government has ever given to another people has had to be with the consent of the country aided. This goes back to the wonderful relief work that our government did in Europe during World War I and afterwards by Herbert Hoover. It goes back to UNRRA, to the Marshall Plan, to any form of aid and assistance.

Of course, prior to these many wars, American private persons and organizations poured various forms of aid into foreign countries. This has not had anything to do with our government or even its sanction. In my opinion, the most telling aid comes from missionary groups, both Protestant and Catholic, particularly in the fields of education and health. Private organizations can work people-to-people; governments are political organizations, motivated by political considerations and therefore must function through such agencies as governments appoint and tolerate.

The limitations upon governmental agencies are always numerous. President Kennedy would undoubtedly prefer to pursue a foreign policy of his own devising but no President can quite do that. He has other countries to consider, friends, enemies, neutrals, those with which we have commitments and those which are bringing pressures to bear in other directions.

He has Congress to consider. The Congress has an enormous voice in our foreign relations. For instance the President must wait for Congress to appropriate funds for all phases of the foreign policy. The President has no power of the purse. He has to go to Congress for many forms of consent and when the President is on bad terms with Congress, his policies may be swamped for years.

Finally, the President has to consider public opinion in his own country. This is a nation in which everyone, expert or inexpert, brilliant mind or moron and all in between, has an opinion. And all vote on Election Day. A President, therefore cannot flout public opinion no matter how stupid its expression may be.

President Kennedy, at this moment, faces the Russian problem with three possibilities:

1. A negotiated peace with considerable compromise on both sides on major issues;
2. Stand firm but do nothing drastic;
3. Go to war.

All three are unpleasant and except for war, no decision can be final. When two opponents are evenly balanced, no unilateral decision is possible, except one that brings on a war. In the next war, nuclear weapons will be used. The Russians are proving to be more formidable than was anticipated.

What decision must President Kennedy make? There are many in this country who take the position that a negotiated peace with compromises in a "no win" policy. It is. But the alternative is war. Are these persons ready publicly to favor war? If so, let them say so. Those who have proposals "short of war" can be eliminated from serious consideration. There is no such thing as "short of war," in a world of constant war. Do they believe that the Cold War is a joke?

The second proposal, that is, to stand firm but do nothing drastic, is where we are. But we cannot stand firm because things move too swiftly. We can put doctors and ambulances at the Wall of Shame in Berlin, but we cannot break down the wall without starting a war. We might even hurl a few missiles at Cuba and kill half the population, but we can guarantee that that will not start retaliation in other places?

The position is a difficult one for the man who has to make the final decision, because if he makes the absolutely wrong one, there will be no cover up and no reversal.

Soviet Buildup In Cuba Threatens U.S. Security

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The Soviet government has flagrantly violated the Monroe Doctrine, which declares that no European government may establish a foothold or acquire any territory in the Western Hemisphere beyond what had already been established prior to 1823. This has been a basic principle of American foreign policy under all administrations since that time. Now, however, the Soviet Union has landed military personnel and equipment in large quantities in Cuba and will maintain a base under its control just 90 miles from this country.

President Kennedy has made it clear in public statements heretofore that, while the United States may consult with the Organization of American States, this country is nevertheless free at any time to take unilateral action to deal with any violations of the Monroe Doctrine.

The facts about the latest operations in Cuba have been verified to the satisfaction of the U. S. Department of State. Here is what actually has happened:

1. Between 3,000 and 5,000 Soviet personnel arrived in Cuba in five Soviet passenger vessels between July 27 and July 31.

2. Eleven cargo ships of the Soviet Union arrived during the same period and unloaded large crates at the ports of Havana, Matanzas, Bahia de Nipe, Bahia Honda, and Mariel. This was accomplished during the night hours under strict security conditions.

3. Soviet personnel did all the unloading.

4. Eyewitnesses saw empty trucks lifted into the holds of the various ships, where they were loaded and covered with tarpaulins. They were then hoisted back on to the docks and driven away by Soviet personnel.

5. Eyewitnesses reported seeing tanks, communications trucks, and large truck-trailers carrying crates about 40 feet long. All indications are that military hardware and communications equipment formed a large part of the cargo. Crews of American airplanes, flying over the ships on their way to Cuba, also observed the military nature of the equipment.

6. Only one of the five Soviet passenger ships arrived openly, and it was ceremoniously welcomed by Cuban Communist officials. It carried about 400 genuine agricultural experts and technicians, who were heralded as coming to assist in the agricultural development of Cuba. The other four vessels, however, arrived secretly at night, and these carried Soviet military personnel.

7. At least 15 additional ships from the Communist bloc, containing more of the same kind of cargoes and personnel, are on their way to Cuba.

President Kennedy knew all about this when he referred briefly at his Wednesday press conference to the landing in Cuba of "supplies and technicians of a rather intensive quantity in recent weeks." He said that they came from the Communist bloc countries. Asked what the significance of it was, the President answered: "We are examining it now."

Actually, the Soviet military officers will train the Cuban Army just as they have done in the case of the North Vietnam Army in Southeast Asia.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

RAPID GROWTH—The creation of new nations, primarily on the African continent, has caused an unprecedented growth in the number of embassies, legations and diplomatic missions in Washington. And this, in turn, has caused a new problem of scheduling for the caterers who specialize in handling the parties for Embassy Row.

The problem was typified the other day when passers-by saw white-aproned waiters carrying gilt chairs from the British Embassy across Massachusetts Avenue to the Iranian Embassy.

To the uninformed, it appeared as though Mrs. Jones was helping Mrs. Smith out of a jam. But a bit of inquiring developed that the chairs were the property of a Washington caterer.

The British Embassy party was just ending and the Iranian one just starting. The caterer was handling both jobs and using his waiters to move his equipment.

POTHOLDER—Now that we're on the verge of political campaign time again, Connecticut housewives are about to get gifts of pottedholders.

Rep. Horace Seely-Brown is running for the Senate on the Republican ticket this year, and that political potholder is one of his best producing campaign gimmicks. As Seely-Brown goes from house to house ringing doorbells, he introduces himself as a political office-seeker and gives the lady who answers the door a pottedholder. On it is embroidered: "Make a note, Remember to vote for Seely-Brown."

The hyphenated hopeful claims the pottedholders have played an important part in getting him elected to the House of Representatives on numerous occasions, and he has complete faith that they'll do as well for him in this year's run for the Senate.

Seely-Brown must have a lot of faith in pottedholders. His opponent is Abraham Ribicoff, former Kennedy Cabinet member and governor of Connecticut, who has the reputation of being the greatest vote-getter that state has ever produced.

Product Testimonials Are Often Misleading

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Phony testimonials are deceptive and represent a gross disregard for honesty. A year ago Mickey Mantle promised the Federal Trade Commission he no longer would endorse a brand of milk he did not drink.

We hope other champions will do likewise and help in a small way to reduce the moral decay so prevalent in this country. There is no harm in testimonials provided they are true, free of misleading implications, and reflect the current opinion of the author.

Medical testimonials are utilized frequently to prove the value of patent medicines and other nostrums. They are worthless because the writer's problems (and, all too often, the source) are not investigated and credit is given where credit is not due.

In addition, only the favorable testimonials are advertised. Nothing is said about customers who ask for their money back or who died. As a matter of fact, the failures rarely write so the manufacturer gets a lopsided account of his product.

Mrs. Lediagg suffered periodically from nervous fatigue. A friend told her about Super-T, a "marvelous tonic." It worked like a charm and she was so elated she sat down and wrote the manufacturer. The company was highly pleased with the testimonial and included it in their next advertising brochure.

Shortly thereafter, Super-T began to lose its magic power and Mrs. Lediagg complained of being as tired and listless as before. This is an old story to physicians because the only cure for fatigue is to find and eliminate the cause. Tonics offer only temporary relief and are not the solution to the problem.

Meanwhile, the manufacturer continues to employ this and other testimonials telling the same story. The unfavorable letters, if any, are thrown in the wastebasket. The more unscrupulous dealer often makes up his own testimonials.

Ethical pharmaceutical companies conduct control studies on new products. They prepare two sets of capsules, identical in appearance. One set contains the new drug and the other, an inert substance such as starch or sugar. Each has a code number that is known only to a disinterested party. The final results are determined after a sizable number of people have been given some of each.

TOMORROW: Heart stabs.

PHLEBITIS

A. V. writes: Is milk leg the same as a blood clot in the leg?

REPLY

A blood clot in the main vein of the leg is followed by swelling that some laymen call milk leg, especially when the thrombosis occurs after childbirth. In the strict sense, milk leg involves the lymph passageways. Swelling stems from an infection and obstruction of the flow of lymph.

RICH BLOOD

A. B. writes: My husband, 29, went to a doctor for a check-up. He said everything was fine except that my husband's blood is too rich. What did he mean?

REPLY

I assume the physician meant too many blood cells and too much hemoglobin (polycythemia). Additional tests may be necessary to determine whether treatment is needed.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Venetian Group Battles To Save Famous Canals From Automobiles

By Drew Pearson

VENICE, Italy — This historic city, famous for its canals, its ancient palaces, and its gondolas, has been undergoing the same sort of argument over modernization as Washington, D. C., and various other cities of the USA. The argument is over the old versus the new, over auto traffic and thoroughways versus historic homes and monuments.

One Venetian group, headed by Count Adriano Foscarini, and with the backing of various go-getting real estate operators, organized "Venezia Viva"—"Living Venice"—and propose building a bunch of bridges between the mainland and Venice. They want to bring auto traffic into the city, hitherto traversed almost exclusively by boats.

Naturally, this created a storm. Leader of the storm is Countess Anna Maria Cicogna Volpe, the counterpart of Elizabeth Rowe of Washington who, as head of President Kennedy's Planning Commission, wants to save historic buildings rather than have them knocked out by thoroughways.

Mrs. Rowe has won the battle to keep Dolly Madison's home on Lafayette Square and other historic homes opposite the White House, but has not yet won her battle to block the huge Italian-designed motel-shopping-center-apartment house which a company financed by the Vatican wants to build on the Potomac River where it would dwarf the nearby Lincoln Memorial.

While Vatican architecture may be coming to the colonial Potomac, in Italy the battle for ancient architecture is being won by "Our Italy," the group under Countess Volpe.

"A battery of bridges connecting Venice with the mainland would only mean automobile traffic," Countess Volpe told me, "and auto traffic will mean a demand to fill up our canals and build thoroughways."

All the traffic studies made in America and Europe show that more and wider streets simply lead to more automobiles and then a further demand for more and wider streets.

Countess Volpe has studied American traffic problems, knows of the attempt of Mayor Wagner of New York to keep passenger traffic out of downtown Manhattan; and of the careful coordination of suburban railroads by Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia to keep automobiles out of downtown Philadelphia. And the countess is not going to let the canals of Venice get filled up to create highways for autos.

So far, she has won her battle.

Battle Of Gondola

However, the battle of the gondola and the gondolier vs. the motorboat still goes on. It's the old battle of manpower vs. mechanical power, and in Venice, as all over the world, manpower is losing out.

There used to be thousands of gondolas in Venice. Now there are only 400. The gondolier, with all his brawn, his picturesque straw hat, his white-and-blue striped shirt, and his slim beautiful gondola, can't compete with the motorboat for speed. When you want to go up the Grand Canal two miles to the Italian radio station, you can get there in ten minutes by water taxi; forty-five minutes by gondola. That's the answer.

Last spring the gondoliers staged a sit-down strike. They sat right down on the waters of the Grand Canal. In fact, they lined up their gondolas in a solid phalanx across it, blocking all traffic as a protest against motorboats.

The protest worked — in part. The city fathers since then have enforced the speed limit of eight kilometers per hour in the Grand Canal, thus penalizing the motorboats somewhat, also reducing the speedboat wash which sometimes threatens to swamp the gondolas.

One development which horrified the city fathers, incidentally, was the fact that two gondoliers, yielding to modern progress, had cut holes in their gondolas and attached outboard motors!

No Privacy For Jackie

If Jackie Kennedy hoped to have a private holiday in Italy, her hope is unfulfilled as far as privacy is concerned. An Italian cult called "Paparazzi" is the result.

Paparazzi is the determination of Italian newspapers to have photographers and reporters on deck almost every time a prominent figure turns around.

In Washington, the photographers are respectful and newsmen reasonably cooperative. Furthermore, they are held at bay by tough Secret Service rules and an unwritten law that any camera artist who takes uncomplimentary pictures of the Presidential family gets no future breaks around the White House. At Cape Cod, the rules are even tougher, and no photographer can get any closer to the Kennedy family than a guarding motorboat permits. The freedom of the high seas doesn't exist in those waters.

But not in Italy. Mrs. Kennedy is fair game for all Italian reporters and cameramen. Hence, the detailed report of how she went out yachting with auto-king Gianni Agnelli near Capri and didn't get home until 4 a. m.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The word intent is important in the reading of any Supreme Court decision. Several weeks ago, this august body, which is designed to deny or affirm and is forbidden to initiate, startled the nation by declaring a State of New York school prayer to be a violation of the First Article of the Constitution. Now, a new action is pending against the last stanza of "The Star-Spangled Banner," because it mentions God.

There has been a lot of legal huffing and puffing since the original decision. What was the intent? Does it expel God from school? I'm not a lawyer. Still, I've read the decision twice and I think that the court is not denying the existence of God, nor the need of God in our schools and daily lives, but it is denying the right of any group of government officials—state or national—to sponsor a prayer.

A couple of the Supreme Court Justices have, in private, expressed alarm at the volume of mail which has castigated the court. The issue of separation of church and state is old. History shows that the excess of the clergy almost always occur in countries where there are state-sponsored faiths—England, Spain, Italy, for example. Israel is the newest nation to join these ranks.

The founding fathers of this nation—some of whom fled European countries because they could not worship in a manner compatible with their conscience—did not deny the existence of God. They embraced Him. They loved Him so much that they gave up their old homes, their farms, their material treasures, to take a voyage to a hostile wilderness, and live there to worship as they pleased.

The thing they opposed was a mandatory house of worship. That is why the Continental Congress separated the state from the church. This separation has not only endured, it has flourished. Americans are free to choose a church, start one, or deny all of them. We have, for example, over 21,000,000 practicing Baptists, and these are broken into 24 sects. There are 9,000,000 Lutherans; 13,000,000 Methodists, and each of these is broken into wings of worship. The Jews number 5,500,000 and are broken into three main sects: Orthodox, Conservative and Liberal. The Presbyterians have over 4,000,000 members; the Episcopalians almost 4,000,000 and on up to the Roman Catholic Church, with over 41,000,000 members, down to the United Christian Church, with 530 members. If the phrase—majority rule—means anything in America, then it must be recognized that this is a religious country, because 63.4% of the population is enrolled in one church or another. Of the remaining 36.6%, the majority believe in God but are not professed religionists.

In each public school across the nation, I would suggest that a student write a prayer and submit it to the student body as a non-sectarian appeal to God, to be recited every morning.

Thus the prayer will not be "officially sponsored" and will represent the will of the majority of the students. After that, let anyone sue out a restraining order to the Supreme Court of the United States. This is the quickest way, I feel, to restore God to the schools.

The newest attack against the mention of God has been instituted by Mrs. Miriam Rubenstein of Hicksville, L. I. She asked the State Education Commission of New York to forbid the singing of the last stanza of the National Anthem:

"Blest with victory and peace,
May the heaven rescued land
Praise the power that hath made
And preserved us as a nation.
Then conquer we must,
For our cause it is just,
And this be our motto:
In God is our trust!"

There is nothing in those lyrics which express an affinity for any church. It acknowledges God, and our reliance upon Him. If, by some odd chance, the Supreme Court should deny Americans the right to sing this stanza, then it will not represent a victory for the separation of church and state, but a clear solid triumph for atheism over all churches. The decision of the N. Y. State Board of Education in this battle is relatively unimportant because the matter should be expedited to the Supreme Court for final adjudication.

If the lady wins her suit, then we had better call in all our coins and erase the words "In God We Trust." We had also better eliminate the words "So help me God" from all court oaths. On second thought, the melting of all coins to eliminate the words "In God We Trust" might be cumbersome and expensive. Between the words "We" and "Trust," we could stamp "Do Not."

$3,450,000 Job On Winchester Hospital Set

WINCHESTER, Va.—Construction of a $3,450,000 addition to the Winchester Memorial Hospital will begin this week.

The hospital, with a capacity of 254 beds, sometimes accommodates more than 320 cases. The new addition will raise the capacity to about 385 beds, according to Carl S. Napps, administrator.

It is hoped that the first unit will be ready for use in 14 months with pathology, radiology and emergency departments scheduled for completion first.

Of the $3,450,000 cost of the addition, $1,765,000 is to come from the federal government and $120,000 from a Ford Foundation grant. Other bequests and funds and a public subscription drive in April netted $1,150,000.

Many of the hospital's patients come from the nearby South Branch Valley of West Virginia.

FROSTBURG — Frostburg State Teachers college will offer six courses on the 400 (lower graduate) level during the 1962-63 academic year which are common to traditional master's programs in chemistry, mathematics and physics as majors or related minors announced Raymond D. McCullough, director of extension.

The program will be organized and conducted in a manner consistent with the requirements and subject to the approval of The Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the appropriate professional associations; the college science department; the college graduate department and the college Board of Trustees.

Admission to the program will be according to established procedures at the College. A candidate for admission will submit an application for admission to the Graduate School and a transcript of his undergraduate work.

In general, if the quality and character of his undergraduate work indicate that he can pursue graduate work in the field for which he is applying with profit, he will be admitted. After completing from nine to 12 hours of graduate work with an average grade of B or higher and with no grade of D, he may apply to the Graduate Committee for admission to candidacy for the degree.

Transfer of credit will be according to regularly established rules of the College. Six semester hours may be transferred with the approval of the Graduate Committee.

Courses offered will be Advanced Thermodynamics, Mechanics I and II, Fluid Dynamics I and II, Calculus III, Differential Equations and Heat Transfer I and II.

All classes will meet once per week from 7 to 10 p.m. and will be in session for instruction a minimum of 150 minutes leaving 30 minutes "break time."

Instructors will include Stanley C. Browning, B. S. and M. S. in Mechanical Engineering, West Virginia University; Akbar Brinsmade, B. S. in Chemistry, University of Wisconsin and M. S. in Chemical Engineering, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; James C. Leslie, B. S. in Chemical Engineering, Pennsylvania State University and M. S. and Ph. D., Ohio State University; Walter J. Rissler, diploma, New York State Merchant Marine Academy, B. A., and M. A., Mathematics, New Jersey State Teachers College; and Robert W. Roberts, B. S. Chemical Engineering, Washington University and M. S. and Ph. D., Chemical Engineering, University of Iowa.

Registration will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. in Allegany Hall, room 100, Monday, September 17. Anyone desiring further information may contact Mr. McCullough at the College.

Bernard Cordial Is Hospitalized

LONA CONING — Bernard D. Cordial of West Main Street, president of the George's Creek Improvement Association, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted Friday night.

While he is hospitalized, matters concerning the proposed improvements to the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area should be referred to Edward McPartland.

Bloodmobile Plans Visit To Romney

ROMNEY, W. Va. — A bloodmobile from the Washington D. C. Red Cross Blood Center will visit the Presbyterian Church here from 1 until 6 p.m. Thursday.

Another visit is scheduled to the Moose Home in Moorefield from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday.

Last week, the Washington Red Cross Blood Center distributed 1,725 pints of blood in the Washington area.

Three Teenagers Die In Crashes

By United Press International

Three teenagers were killed on West Virginia highways over the weekend, pushing the Mountain State's highway fatality toll for the year to 268.

The latest victim was Corla Varnette Houston, 17, Clarksburg. She was killed in a two-car collision on a street in a Clarksburg suburb Saturday night.

Two Martinsburg youths were killed Saturday in a head-on collision on U. S. 11 near Martinsburg. They were Jack Arthur McCauley, 17, the driver and Roger Lee Bailey, 16, a passenger. Three other persons were injured.

Pocahontas Wins At Poultry Judging

LEWISBURG, W. Va. — Pocahontas County's 4-H poultry judging team took top honors in the annual state 4-H poultry judging contest at the State Fair here.

Pocahontas County had 1,211 points out of a possible 1,500. Hardy County, last year's champion, was second with 1,800; Grant County placed third with 1,120 and Pendleton County was fourth with 1,108.

The winning team will represent West Virginia at the 16th annual Northeastern 4-H poultry judging contest to be held at Harrisburg, Pa., during the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council Exposition on Tuesday, October 2.

Jo An Circosta of Pocahontas County was the individual winner with 453 points out of a possible 500. Other leaders were Thurman Smith, Grant County, and Charles Calhoun, Pendleton County, tied for second with 420 points each; Carol Mathias, Hardy County, was fourth with 416 points; John C. Hammer, Pendleton County, and Sammy Sheets, Pocahontas County, tied for fifth with 396 points.

Firemen Arrange Corn Roast Tonight

SHAFT — The Shaft Volunteer Fire Company will hold a corn roast today at 8 p.m. for members, their wives and auxiliary members.

A joint meeting will precede the event, and plans will be made for a spaghetti supper Wednesday from 4 to 7 p.m. in the fire hall. Francis Philpot and Mildred Landefeld are co-chairmen.

Plans will also be made for collecting coin cards which the company distributed throughout the area four months ago, according to Russell Carder, president. Carder urged members to turn in insurance applications for the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Proceeds from the dinner will be applied toward the new fire station.

Mt. Savage Scouts Witness Two Films

MT. SAVAGE — Scouts of Troop and Pack 50 of St. George's Episcopal Church were shown two films: "Artificial Respiration" and "Challenge of Leadership" a recent evening in the parish hall.

The films were made available to the units through the courtesy of Irvin Lavin from the Safety Training Department of Allegany Ballistics. Lloyd Wade, Jr., district commissioner, aided Mr. Lavin in showing the movies. Later a discussion of certain methods and points of interest in the movies was conducted by Assistant Scoutmaster Harry Harr and Cubmaster Harry Long.

$3,450,000 Job On Winchester Hospital Set

WINCHESTER, Va.—Construction of a $3,450,000 addition to the Winchester Memorial Hospital will begin this week.

The hospital, with a capacity of 254 beds, sometimes accommodates more than 320 cases. The new addition will raise the capacity to about 385 beds, according to Carl S. Napps, administrator.

It is hoped that the first unit will be ready for use in 14 months with pathology, radiology and emergency departments scheduled for completion first.

Of the $3,450,000 cost of the addition, $1,765,000 is to come from the federal government and $120,000 from a Ford Foundation grant. Other bequests and funds and a public subscription drive in April netted $1,150,000.

Many of the hospital's patients come from the nearby South Branch Valley of West Virginia.

Nomads Will Meet

FROSTBURG — Victory Santha No. 30, Nomads of Ayudaka, will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Junior Hall, Polk Street, Cumberland, with Dora Davis, rani, and Walter McKee, rajah, presiding. A social hour will follow with refreshments being served by Ada Keady and her committee.

PLYMOUTH

YOU CAN ENJOY AN "ADVENTURE IN SPACE" FOR AS LITTLE AS $1.05

Don't get us wrong. They haven't put a price on rocket trip tickets yet. We are talking about newspaper space . . . the kind of space that works so well to deliver your message when you use a Want Ad.

We call it an adventure because so many first time Want Ad users have been so pleasantly surprised at the way people respond to their ads. A little three line ad doesn't look like much but thousands of people will read it.

Next time you have a need to sell something, find something, hire someone or rent something, remember the Want Ads. Take an adventure in space, space buying, that is. Buy three lines in the Times-News Want Ad pages and see how profitable your adventure can be.

The $1.05 we mentioned is the price of a 15-word ad for one day, morning and evening on a week-day or Sunday Times only on a Sunday; paid for in advance at our office or mailed to us with payment in advance.

To place your ad, or obtain further information without obligation, dial the Want Ad number, 722-4600. The minimum cost of an ad if we charge it to you is only $1.50.

Planning Report Cites Need For Renewal Action

No Population Increase Is Seen

A number of conclusions were made by Blair and Stein Associates, planning consultants, in a report on the Economic Base and Population Analysis of the City of Cumberland.

The document, Progress Report No. 1, was presented to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, points out the urgent need for planning and action.

The summary of findings of the planners follow: On the economy of Cumberland, the report says: The Economy

Within the City of Cumberland, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad are the two most important employers. While Kelly-Springfield has maintained a stabilized employment for many years, the Baltimore and Ohio has continuously reduced its employment since World War II.

Existing industries in the city cannot be expected to provide any major expansion in employment or facilities.

Little industrial growth can take place within the city due to the lack of available land. By redevelopment of deteriorating areas, small industrial sites may be developed; however, major industrial development can take place only outside the city.

Renewal Urged

Trends in major economic activities all point to expansion outside the city. In retail and wholesale trade, selected services and in industrial growth, the county rather than the city has received the greatest proportion of economic growth.

The future economy of the central business district is in danger of major decline due to the development of new shopping centers which have easy access, convenient parking, freedom of pedestrian movement and modern attractiveness. The downtown area has old and obsolete buildings, traffic congestion, unattractiveness and often inconvenient and inadequate parking. A major program of renewal action is indicated to improve the competitive position of the downtown area.

Population

On the city's population expectations, the planners say: Cumberland has lost population due primarily to two factors. The first is economic, or the reduction of job opportunities in the city and the area. People are leaving the area for greater opportunities elsewhere. Second, the city is losing population to the county, as is the case with many other cities. The county area outside Cumberland has made important gains in its economic position and has a much slower rate of population decline than the city.

Downtown Cited

Cumberland has a higher proportion of elderly people than does the county. This reflects the outmigration of younger, child-bearing families into the county as well as out of the area. With a rapidly increasing elderly population, the need for special housing and leisure time activities for the senior citizen will become more prominent.

Cumberland cannot expect a major increase in population during the next 20 years. Assuming an improved area economy, the planning program for the City of Cumberland should be aimed at an improved environment of better housing, community facilities, and a stronger downtown. A stabilized population should thereby be sought with a possibility of a moderate increase.

Garlitz Heads Printers Union

Joseph E. Garlitz, Corrigansville, was elected president of Cumberland Local 244, International Typographical Union, at a meeting yesterday in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Other officers, named at the regular election in May, are: William A. Miller, vice president; C. R. Weatherholt, secretary-treasurer; John E. Miller, recording secretary; and James W. Beynon, Journal correspondent.

Delegates to the Tri-State Conference, to be held in Wheeling, W. Va. October 20 and 21, were also named.

John E. Miller was elected as the Local 244 delegate and William H. Mills as the apprentice member.

Mr. Weatherholt is president of the conference and John W. Whetzel, also of Local 244, is vice president.

Tawes, Hume Reach Accord On Differences

To Base Campaign On New Positions

By GEORGE BOWEN

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes and one of his major primary opponents, David Hume, reached accord today on issues that caused their differences, and they will be made a part of the Democratic campaign.

Hume said the field of agreement included soil conservation, water pollution, conflicts of interest, lobbying and a position on slot machines.

They will be incorporated in the Democratic campaign as "Operation Challenge" and a task force of independent experts will be named to develop it.

Details of the various proposals will be made public from time to time by Tawes, who has assured Hume they will be introduced at the 1963 legislature if he is re-elected Nov. 6.

In the meantime, Hume said he is convinced the program would "put Maryland in the forefront," particularly in the field of conserving land for the public interest.

"It also gives me the opportunity to stand up in good conscience, of supporting not only the candidacy of Gov. Tawes, but the entire Democratic slate," Hume said.

"I am confident the electorate will respond to our request for the support of our principles and our candidates."

Major Accomplishment

Achievement of the accord between Hume and Tawes was a major accomplishment by the Democratic ticket during a two-day meeting of the United Democratic Women's Clubs.

Hume said it was reached after many conferences with the governor "on those issues we considered of importance to the state."

"If there have been personal differences in the past, the resolution of these differences was made easy by the recognition that no man, no woman, no individual is greater than our party and the principles of the party."

Hume said he was looking forward to campaigning for Gov. Tawes, "whose candidacy I fought with all my strength in the primary."

Hume particularly praised Louis L. Goldstein, candidate for reelection as comptroller, for his contribution to the accord ironed out in the conferences.

No Word From Mahoney

Goldstein backed Hume for the post of Democratic state treasurer four years ago. It was Hume's first role in Maryland politics. He subsequently resigned when he and Tawes could not see eye to eye.

In his first shot at an elective office for governor, Hume some, what surprisingly carried the populous counties of Prince Georges, Montgomery and Washington. By contrast, the tried campaigner, George P. Mahoney, failed to win a county.

"I intend to fight as hard for the return of this administration as I did to win in the primary," Hume promised.

Mahoney has not yet shown he will rejoin the Democratic bandwagon.

Elks Install Officers As Conclave Ends

Clarence M. Mullican Jr. of Annapolis Lodge 622 was installed as president of the Maryland-Delaware District of Columbia Elks Association yesterday in the home of Cumberland Lodge 63, host organization, as a four-day convention closed here.

A. Guy Miller, Annapolis, past president of the association, presided at the installation.

Other new officers are Raymond F. Gafney of Frederick Lodge 684, first vice president; Horace Pugh of Dover Lodge 903, second vice president; Herbert W. Abel of Silver Spring Lodge 1677, third vice president; R. Edward Dove of Annapolis Lodge 622, secretary; and Joseph G. Motyka of Washington Lodge 15, treasurer.

New three-year trustees are John Blozis of Washington Lodge 15 and Thompson J. Kimmel of Dover Lodge 1903. Holdover trustees include Carl Bozman, Easton, and William T. Sturgis, Salisbury, two years; Francis W. Taylor, Silver Spring; Daniel T. Witts, Towson, and Siegfried Michaelis, Annapolis, one year; and E. Robert Bowlus, Frederick, past president.

Appointees include Arthur L. Kirby of Frostburg Lodge 470, chaplain; J. G. Stegman of St. Mary's County Lodge 2092, tiler; and Philip Hickman of Pocomoke Lodge 1624. William L. Wise of Cambridge Lodge 1272 is the outgoing president.

Battery Is Taken

Two cases involving the ransacking of cars are being investigated by the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department.

Jerry Stonebreaker, 722 Maryland Avenue, told Detective Harry Liser that a battery was taken from his car Saturday as it was parked on Paca Street.

Celanese Aids Sacred Heart

Salisbury Celebration Scheduled

Parade To Open Centennial Events

A fitting climax to the 100th anniversary observance of the incorporation of Salisbury, Pa., in nearby Somerset County, will be written during Centennial Week, starting Wednesday and lasting through Saturday.

On August 29, 1962, Salisbury was incorporated officially as a borough in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. On Wednesday, exactly 100 years later, this memorable moment will be commemorated with a parade and program at the square featuring two nationally-known speakers.

The speakers will be Harold B. Finger, director of nuclear systems of the Office of Advanced Research and Technology of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Rep. James E. Van Zandt from Pennsylvania's 20th District.

The parade will begin at 7:30 p. m. Rep. Van Zandt and Mr. Finger will lead the parade to the reviewing stand to be located at the square. The post-parade program will begin at 8:15 p. m.

Included in the parade will be area high school bands, other band groups and marching units. There will be numerous floats, the Jaffa Shrine Temple callopie from Altoona, Pa., and all of the uniformed units from Ali Ghan Shrine Temple in Cumberland.

Mr. Finger will speak in non-technical language about present developments and the future hopes of NASA. He will deal especially with the use of atomic energy.

Although Rep. Van Zandt is a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania, his address is billed as non-political in nature.

After a pause on Thursday, Salisbury Centennial events will be resumed on Friday and Saturday.

At 8 p. m. Friday in the Salisbury-Elk Lick Joint High School auditorium, the centennial pageant, "Bid Time Return," will be staged. The production, to be presented only once, will feature Salisbury local talent, including Miss Sandra Robinson, the centennial queen.

On Saturday, beginning at 11 a. m., in the Community Park an ox roast will be served, handled by a professional, Harry C. Pfeil of Waynesboro, Pa. It will be served in the park, and shelter will be available in case of rain.

Other events planned in the park on Saturday include a horse pulling contest in the afternoon, demonstrations of flax scutching, old-fashioned blacksmithing and other events being arranged by the committee.

Sewer Pipe Bids Are Being Asked

The Department of Streets and Public Property this week will advertise for bids, to be opened September 10 at 10 a. m. for sewer pipe to be used on Haddon Avenue and the Winifred Road area.

Sought are bids on 3,000 feet of eight-inch pipe, 402 feet of six-inch pipe and necessary fittings.

12 Young Campers, Still Enthusiastic, Head East

Cumberland's campers are heading east again, full of excitement and enthusiasm after a week of visiting the World's Fair, touring Vancouver, British Columbia, cruising Puget Sound in a motor launch and climbing part way up Mount Rainier in the snow.

Saturday night the campers were in Twin Falls, Idaho, and were planning to head into Wyoming yesterday on an easterly route that will bring them through Indianapolis. Their west-bound route was a more northern one that took them through Chicago.

To many of the 12 young campers and their four adult drivers, the climb up Mount Rainier was the biggest thrill of the trip.

Thirteen-year-old Albie Feldstein, youngest member of the party, described it this way in a Sunday.

Parent-Child Study Leaders Plan Meetings

Sessions Start On Wednesday

Four leaders have been named for the Allegany County parent-child study program for the 1962-63 school year, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

These leaders are Mrs. John Oglebay, Mrs. Joseph Steger, Mrs. Fern Wilson and Miss Myra Nefflen, who retired several years ago as principal of the Cresap-Town School.

The four leaders and the pupil personnel staff will have a leadership workshop on Wednesday and Thursday under the direction of Dr. Bernard Peck of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland. Dr. Peck will bring to the group much of the newer research in the physical area of child study and its impact upon the behavior of the child.

This school year, the parent-child study program will stress the physical well being of the child. Four major goals for this year's program have been evolved by Mr. Higgins.

These goals are (1) to give to the parents much of the scientific information and research which will help them know and understand the physical being, (2) that they will be stimulated and made more conscious about observing their children physically, (3) that they will better understand the impact of physical things upon the behavior of their children and (4) that they will be more prone to take care of the physical needs of their children through examinations and medical care.

Mr. Higgins believes these goals can lead to better adjusted children who will be able to function at a higher academic level.

Individual parent-child study groups will be organized in different schools around the county. They will be divided into fall and winter segments. The groups in the fall segment will meet once a week beginning the week of October 1 and ending the week of December 3. The winter segment will start the week of January 7 and end the week of February 18.

Each group will have two visitations from a member of the pupil personnel department.

Mr. Higgins pointed out that this program is considered unique both by the Child Study Institute and the State Department of Education, which has now assigned a person to be in charge from the state level in this area.

The supervisor of pupil personnel is writing all school principals of the county requesting them to encourage new parents in the community, first grade parents and parents who have children in special programs.

Lions To Hear Singer

Miss Rosalind Erickson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a professional pianist and blues singer who is visiting relatives in the area, will perform at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions Club at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday at Central YMCA.

Sacred Heart To Study Management Practices

The techniques of American industrial management, recognized throughout the world as embodying the highest ideals of management practices, will soon be applied at the present Sacred Heart Hospital on Decatur Street and developed into a continuing program for application at the new Sacred Heart to be erected on Haystack Mountain, Sister Mary Richard, administrator, announced last night.

"We are indebted to the management of the Celanese Fibers Company for presenting a management and leadership program for our department heads and supervisors," the administrator said. She added that it has always been the policy of the hospital to operate under the philosophy of industrial management — providing the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

"With a team of Celanese management experts performing an outstanding community service by volunteering to help sharpen up our management practices," Sister Mary Richard further stated "Plus the continuous upgrading of our physical plant and scientific approach to patient care, we are in a position to offer services to the public that are second to none."

The Management and Leadership Program has been developed by D. Richard Tarallo, James A. Maguire and William J. Sumner of the Celanese management staff, and will be outlined to hospital department heads and supervisors at a dinner meeting at Sacred Heart at 6 p. m. on September 18.

The program, which involves eight one-hour sessions over a period of eight weeks and includes a 43-page reference manual for the continued use of the hospital management, is similar to one previously prepared by Mr. Tarallo for Presbyterian and Lutheran hospitals in the Baltimore area.

Two sessions, scheduled for September 25 and October 2, deal with "Hospital and Departmental Organization," the next three, on October 9, 16 and 23, will cover "Preparing and Evaluating Job Descriptions," and the last three, on October 30 and November 6 and 13, will deal heavily in "Management and Supervisory Techniques."

"Although hospital costs are high, chiefly because hospital employees outnumber patients two to one," Sister Mary Richard said, "they would be completely out of reach if it weren't for the work of dedicated volunteers such as Mr. Tarallo, Mr. Sumner and Mr. Maguire."

Mrs. Roeder Cites Need For Policy

There is a grave need for a city policy on the opening up of undeveloped land in the city limits, according to Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

The statement referred to action of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission which last week advised Mayor Earl D. Chaney it would forego any attempt toward an interim subdivision ordinance since such a code is to be prepared by the city's planning consultant in News: "Today, August 19, we climbed Mount Rainier. Before the climb all of us were enthused. But budget talks, that the city adopt all of us were a quarter of the interim ordinance to regulate late the opening of subdivisions pending the adoption of a permanent code.

She said Friday that in spite of the action of the commission it at the top. When we reached our goal, we rested and then turned back.

"Some of the more adventurous boys and girls slid down on the snow. The rest managed to struggle through to the bottom.

"At Paradise Inn when we gathered and got dry clothes on, we thought we had a day well spent seeing beautiful Mount Rainier."

The campers expect to return to Cumberland sometime next party, described it this way in a Sunday.

Over $17,000 Pledged Early For CUF Drive

13.7% Of Golden Gifts Goal Met

The kickoff dinner for the Cumberland Golden Gifts Division of County United Fund hasn't been held yet, but already more than $17,000 has been pledged for the 1962 campaign.

At a luncheon meeting held for Golden Gifts team captains, $17,160 was pledged, roughly 13.7 per cent of this year's Cumberland Golden Gifts goal.

Robert Hunter Jr., procurement administrator for Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, and Walter E. Dyck, manager of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, hailed the auspicious start as a "sure sign that victory will be realized this year in meeting the $125,000 goal."

The Golden Gifts Division will hold its kickoff dinner Wednesday, September 5, at Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Mr. Dyck told team captains at their luncheon meeting: "If you can instill the spirit you have shown here in the minds of other Golden Givers, along with the courage and civic responsibility that has given us a $17,160 start, we won't be long in reaching our goal."

These men will be working toward the highest Golden Gifts goal ever set in a County United Fund campaign. This year's target is $3,761 higher than that set in 1961.

Mr. Dyck and Mr. Hunter told team captains they should ask all Golden Givers to reappear their Golden Gifts contribution and make their gifts a "gift of courage" to match the courage of those whom they'll be helping — "the young and old, lonely, the unfortunate, and the needy."

Four Persons Injured In Area Crashes

Four persons were admitted to area hospitals yesterday following three vehicle crashes in the tri-state area.

Two persons were admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning after the car in which they were driving crashed on a road off Route 220 at Fairgo.

They were Ronald Riley, 28, of 137 Spring Street, Frostburg, for abrasions of the head and chest, and Clara Harman, 31, of 706 North Mechanic Street, operator of the vehicle, for a laceration of the left wrist.

State Police said the accident occurred at 6:45 a. m. on a road leading into the fair grounds, when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a right curve, ran off the road and hit a tree.

Trooper George Wachter, who investigated, listed the cause as failure to keep to the right of the center of the road.

Robert Nesbit, 18, with the Air Force at Fort Knox, Ky., was transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital here yesterday for transfer by helicopter today to a Washington VA hospital.

He suffered a possible fractured jaw in a car crash on U.S. Route 50 in Hardy County and received treatment in Hampshire County Memorial Hospital, Romney, before being brought here.

Roland Clark, 30, of Everett, Pa., was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital yesterday after the tractor-trailer outfit he was driving crashed on U.S. Route 30 about four miles east of Everett.

State Police said the accident occurred about 6 a. m. when the rig went off the right side of the highway, up an embankment and then skidded back to block all four lanes of the highway.

Extensive damage, estimated at $7,000 was caused to the rig.

Fire Protection Project Started By Water Crews

Water Department crews have started construction on a water line which will provide better fire protection to homes in the area bounded by Byrd, Dorn, Fort Hill and Hudson avenues.

G. Ray Light, commissioner of water and electric light, said the work began last week and will be continued as crews directed by Herbert Stallings, water superintendent, can be spared from other work.

The project will take about 2,180 feet of six-inch cast iron pipe.

The line was started at Byrd and Dorn avenues and will go through Byrd to Fort Hill Avenue, on Summit Avenue, from Byrd out, from Auburn to Hudson, to Dorn Avenue and then hook up to a high pressure line from the Fort Hill water tank.

Mr. Light said the new line will at present furnish fire protection to some 35 homes in the area and help open up the section for new developments.

The area at present, he said, is served by small water lines which will eventually be discontinued.

Vandals Damage Car

George E. Sommerkamp, 911 Brentwood Street, notified city police last night that an antenna was broken off his car and a mirror damaged.

Quench Woods Fire

South Cumberland Fire Company was called out twice last night when woods off Kentucky Avenue caught fire.

Planning Report Cites Need For Renewal Action

No Population Increase Is Seen

A number of conclusions were made by Blair and Stein Associates, planning consultants, in a report on the Economic Base and Population Analysis of the City of Cumberland.

The document, Progress Report No. 1, was presented to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, points out the urgent need for planning and action.

The summary of findings of the planners follow: On the economy of Cumberland, the report says:

The Economy
Within the City of Cumberland, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad are the two most important employers. While Kelly-Springfield has maintained a stabilized employment for many years, the Baltimore and Ohio has continuously reduced its employment since World War II.

Existing industries in the city cannot be expected to provide any major expansion in employment or facilities.

Little industrial growth can take place within the city due to the lack of available land. By redevelopment of deteriorating areas, small industrial sites may be developed; however, major industrial development can take place only outside the city.

Renewal Urged
Trends in major economic activities all point to expansion outside the city. In retail and wholesale trade, selected services and industrial growth, the county rather than the city has received the greatest proportion of economic growth.

The future economy of the central business district is in danger of major decline due to the development of new shopping centers which have easy access, convenient parking, freedom of pedestrian movement and modern attractiveness. The downtown area has old and obsolete buildings, traffic congestion, unattractiveness and often inconvenient and inadequate parking. A major program of renewal action is indicated to improve the competitive position of the downtown area.

Population
On the city's population expectations, the planners say:

Cumberland has lost population due primarily to two factors. The first is economic, or the reduction of job opportunities in the city and the area. People are leaving the area for greater opportunities elsewhere. Second, the city is losing population to the county, as is the case with many other cities. The county area outside Cumberland has made important gains in its economic position and has a much slower rate of population decline than the city.

Downtown Cited
Cumberland has a higher proportion of elderly people than does the county. This reflects the outmigration of younger, child-bearing families into the county as well as out of the area. With a rapidly increasing elderly population, the need for special housing and leisure time activities for the senior citizen will become more prominent.

Cumberland cannot expect a major increase in population during the next 20 years. Assuming an improved area economy, the planning program for the City of Cumberland should be aimed at an improved environment of better housing, community facilities, and a stronger downtown. A stabilized population should thereby be sought with a possibility of a moderate increase.

Richard A. Twigg To Be Teacher At Thurmont High

Richard A. Twigg, 311 Bedford Street, has accepted a position as teacher of ninth and tenth grade history and core at Thurmont High School in Frederick County.

Mr. Twigg, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Twigg, 17 Plymouth Drive, graduated from Allegheny High School in 1958.

He took his bachelor of science degree in junior high school education this year at Frostburg State Teachers College, where he was an outfielder on the varsity baseball team for two years.

Mr. Twigg and his wife, the former Sandra Kay George, daughter of Mrs. Anita Knipple, 217 Frederick Street, will leave for Thurmont next week.

Three Hurt In Plane Mishap Listed 'Good'

Three members of Jefferson town, Ky., family who were injured when their private plane overshot a runway at Cumberland Municipal Airport and plunged down a 150-foot embankment Saturday were reported in good condition at Memorial Hospital last night.

Harold L. Price, 34, the pilot, and his wife, Mary Jo, also 34, were admitted to the hospital with lacerations of the face and arms. A daughter, Rhonda Kae, 7, also was admitted. She complained of a pain in her side and X-rays were to be taken to determine the extent of the injuries.

Three other daughters, Sheri Lynn, 11, Nancy Jo, 4, and Marlene Gill, 2, escaped with minor injuries.

The family made the trip here to attend the funeral yesterday of Mrs. Price's father, Wesley O. Kline, of Corriganville, who died on Thursday. An aunt of Mrs. Price, Mrs. Matilda (Kline) Boor, Corriganville, died Saturday in a Hagerstown hospital.

According to airport officials, the single-engine plane overshot the runway on a second attempted landing. The plane was destroyed, although gasoline flowing from ruptured tanks did not ignite.

The first person to reach the end of the runway was Carl Higgins, local charter pilot for Montgomery Air Service. Higgins said he could not see anyone stirring around the plane, but heard the cries of the Price children.

By the time Higgins descended to the damaged craft the children were out of the plane, with no apparent injuries. Mrs. Price was also out of the craft. Higgins then went to the aid of the husband-pilot.

Bookmobile Visits Set

The Allegany County Library's bookmobile will make visits to different points around the county on four days this week, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Today's schedule calls for stops at Zion Methodist Church, Bedford Road, from 9:45 until 10:15 a. m.; at Bedford Road Baptist Church, from 10:30 until 11:30 a. m.; Bowman's Addition Fire Hall, noon until 12:30 p. m.; Northeast School, 12:45 until 1:30 p. m.; Ellerslie E.U.B. Church, 2 until 3 p. m., and Corriganville School, 3:30 until 4:30 p. m.

Tuesday the bookmobile will travel on McMullen Highway. It will be at the Rawlings Methodist Church from 10 a. m. until noon, at Cresapton School from 12:30 until 1:30 p. m., at the Cresapton Baptist Church from 1:45 until 2:30 p. m., and at the Bowling Green Fire Hall from 3 until 4 p. m.

On Thursday the bookmobile will visit points along Oldtown Road. The schedule calls for visits to the Hess Service Station on Oldtown Road from 11 until 11:30 a. m.; to Sider's Knoll, Oldtown Road, from noon until 12:30 p. m.; at Oldtown School from 1 until 2 p. m., at Mt. Taber Methodist Church from 2:30 until 3 p. m., and to John Humbird School on Ella Avenue from 3:30 until 4:30 p. m.

Only three stops are on the Friday schedule. The first is at Barreille, at the intersection of Route 47, from 10 until 10:30 a. m.; Poland's Service Station at Mt. Savage will be visited from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m., and the Lonaconing Health Center from 2 until 4 p. m.

Tawes, Hume Reach Accord On Differences

To Base Campaign On New Positions

By GEORGE BOWEN

OCENE CITY, Md. (AP)—Gov. Tawes and one of his major primary opponents, David Hume, reached accord today on issues that caused their differences, and they will be made a part of the Democratic campaign.

Hume said the field of agreement included soil conservation, water pollution, conflicts of interest, lobbying and a position on slot machines.

They will be incorporated in the Democratic campaign as "Operation Challenge" and a task force of independent experts will be named to develop it.

Details of the various proposals will be made public from time to time by Tawes, who has assured Hume they will be introduced at the 1963 legislature if he is re-elected Nov. 6.

In the meantime, Hume said he is convinced the program would "put Maryland in the forefront" particularly in the field of conserving land for the public interest.

"It also gives me the opportunity to stand up in good conscience, of supporting not only the candidacy of Gov. Tawes, but the entire Democratic slate," Hume said.

"I am confident the electorate will respond to our request for the support of our principles and our candidates."

Major Accomplishment
Achievement of the accord between Hume and Tawes was a major accomplishment by the Democratic ticket during a two-day meeting of the United Democratic Women's Clubs.

Hume said it was reached after many conferences with the governor "on those issues we considered of importance to the state."

"If there have been personal differences in the past, the resolution of these differences was made easy by the recognition that no man, no woman, no individual is greater than our party and the principles of the party."

Hume said he was looking forward to campaigning for Gov. Tawes, "whose candidacy I fought with all my strength in the primary."

Hume particularly praised Louis L. Goldstein, candidate for re-election as comptroller, for his contribution to the accord ironed out in the conferences.

No Word From Mahoney
Goldstein backed Hume for the post-Democratic state treasurer four years ago. It was Hume's first loss in Maryland politics. He subsequently resigned when he and Tawes could not see eye to eye.

In his first shot at an elective office for governor, Hume somewhat surprisingly carried the populous counties of Prince Georges, Montgomery and Washington. By contrast, the tried campaigner, George P. Mahoney, failed to win a county.

"I intend to fight as hard for the return of this administration as I did to win in the primary," Hume promised.

Mahoney has not yet shown he will rejoin the Democratic bandwagon.

Elks Install Officers As Conclave Ends

Clarence M. Mullican Jr. of Annapolis Lodge 622 was installed as president of the Maryland-Delaware District of Columbia Elks Association yesterday in the home of Cumberland Lodge 63, host organization, as a four-day convention closed here.

A. Guy Miller, Annapolis, past president of the association, presided at the installation.

Other new officers are Raymond F. Gaffney of Frederick Lodge 684, first vice president; Horace Pugh of Dover Lodge 1903, second vice president; Herbert W. Abel of Silver Spring Lodge 1677, third vice president; R. Edward Dove of Annapolis Lodge 622, secretary; and Joseph G. Motyka of Washington Lodge 15, treasurer.

New three-year trustees are John Blozis of Washington Lodge 15 and Thompson J. Kimmel of Dover Lodge 1903. Holdover trustees include Carl Bozman, Easton, and William T. Sturgis, Salisbury, two years; Francis W. Taylor, Silver Spring; Daniel T. Witts, Towson; and Siegfried Michaelis, Annapolis, one year, and E. Robert Bowls, Frederick, past president.

Appointees include Arthur L. Kirby of Frostburg Lodge 470, chaplain; J. G. Stegman of St. Mary's County Lodge 2092, tiler; and Phillip Hickman of Pocomoke Lodge 1624. William L. Wise of Cambridge Lodge 1272 is the outgoing president.

Battery Is Taken

Two cases involving the ransacking of cars are being investigated by the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department.

Salisbury Celebration Scheduled

Parade To Open Centennial Events

A fitting climax to the 100th anniversary observance of the incorporation of Salisbury, Pa., in nearby Somerset County, will be written during Centennial Week starting Wednesday and lasting through Saturday.

On August 29, 1962, Salisbury was incorporated officially as a borough in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. On Wednesday, exactly 100 years later, this memorable moment will be commemorated with a parade and program at the square featuring two nationally-known speakers.

The speakers will be Harold B. Finger, director of nuclear systems of the Office of Advanced Research and Technology of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Rep. James E. Van Zandt from Pennsylvania's 20th District.

The parade will begin at 7:30 p. m. Rep. Van Zandt and Mr. Finger will lead the parade to the reviewing stand to be located at the square. The post-parade program will begin at 8:15 p. m.

Included in the parade will be area high school bands, other band groups and marching units. There will be numerous floats, the Jaffa Shrine Temple calliope from Altoona, Pa., and all of the uniformed units from Ali Ghan Shrine Temple in Cumberland.

Mr. Finger will speak in non-technical language about present developments and the future hopes of NASA. He will deal especially with the use of atomic energy.

Although Rep. Van Zandt is a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania, his address is billed as non-political in nature.

After a pause on Thursday, Salisbury Centennial events will be resumed on Friday and Saturday.

At 8 p. m. Friday in the Salisbury-Elk Lick Joint High School auditorium, the centennial pageant, "Bid Time Return," will be staged. The production, to be presented only once, will feature Salisbury local talent, including Miss Sandra Robinson, the centennial queen.

On Saturday, beginning at 11 a. m., in the Community Park an ox roast will be served, handled by a professional, Harry C. Pfeil of Waynesboro, Pa. It will be served in the park, and shelter will be available in case of rain.

Mrs. Roeder Cites Need For Policy

Mrs. Roeder asked, during budget talks, that the city adopt an interim ordinance to regulate the opening of subdivisions pending the adoption of a permanent code.

She said Friday that in spite of the action of the commission she believes the city should have some policy or ruling, since the 1963 spring construction season will be over before the final ordinance can be adopted.

Mrs. Roeder said she will recommend that the City Engineering Department furnish a set of rules and that they be placed in effect immediately.

Opening up an area, she said, involves far more than housing, since streets, sewers, storm water drainage systems, water and other utilities are needed.

Over $17,000 Pledged Early For CUF Drive

13.7% Of Golden Gifts Goal Met

The kickoff dinner for the Cumberland Golden Gifts Division of County United Fund hasn't been held yet, but already more than $17,000 has been pledged for the 1962 campaign.

At a luncheon meeting held for Golden Gifts team captains, $17,160 was pledged, roughly 13.7 per cent of this year's Cumberland Golden Gifts goal.

Robert Hunter Jr., procurement administrator for Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory, and Walter E. Dyck, manager of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, hailed the auspicious start as a "sure sign that victory will be realized this year in meeting the $125,000 goal."

The Golden Gifts Division will hold its kickoff dinner Wednesday, September 5, at Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Mr. Dyck told team captains at their luncheon meeting: "If you can instill the spirit you have shown here in the minds of other Golden Givers, along with the courage and civic responsibility that has given us a $17,160 start, we won't be long in reaching our goal."

These men will be working toward the highest Golden Gifts goal ever set in a County United Fund campaign. This year's target is $3,761 higher than that set in 1961.

Mr. Dyck and Mr. Hunter told team captains they should ask all Golden Givers to reappear their Golden Gifts contribution and make their gifts a "gift of courage" to match the courage of those whom they'll be helping — "the young and old, lonely, the unfortunate, and the needy."

Senator See Recuperating At Home Here

State Senator Charles M. See, who suffered a heart attack in Cleveland July 10, is recuperating at his home, 508 Forster Avenue.

He was released from St. Vincent's Hospital in Cleveland Saturday and was brought here by car by his nephew, Glenn K. Davis.

Senator See's doctor told him he would be able to return to normal work in about a month. He is taking it easy at his home for several days and then plans to resume activity on a gradual schedule.

Senator See suffered the heart attack while he was in Cleveland as a delegate of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind to the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

Mrs. See, who accompanied him to the conference, stayed with him in Cleveland during his illness and convalescence.

He said last night he plans to resume active campaigning after October 1. He is a Republican candidate for the House of Delegates.

While at the Cleveland hospital, Senator See renewed his acquaintance with the hospital's purchasing agent, Francis Gallagher, a native of Mt. Savage.
